Workshop	Presenter	Workshop Title	A Brief Description of the Workshop
B	Scott Gress	The Coaching Leader	Whether you are a lay leader or professional church worker, we can sometimes get stuck and limit our effectiveness. In this workshop, Rev. Scott Gress, author of Lutheran Life's regular column, "The Coaching Leader" will talk about the principles of coaching, leadership and leading through coaching. Join us to learn about another way to help.
B	Zach Hoffman	Discovering Volunteer Potential	In the church we are always struggling to find volunteers. It might seem like every new idea, vision, program, or strategy is cut short by "How are we going to find enough people to do that!?" Not to mention that "the same 20 people are always doing 80 percent of the work!" It does not have to be that way. This workshop will focus on strategies to recruit volunteers and develop their potential that will assist your congregation in creating a thriving volunteer environment.
B	Brian Jaeger	Free Tech for Churches	Many of the best free technology tools described and shown in action. Learn how to use these tools to build websites and more!
B	Keith Peterson	Faith Sharing Tools for Energizing and Equipping God's People for Witness!	Most people in our churches desperately want to share the Gospel with family and friends but can't find simple and effective tools to help. In this session, we'll explore a host of proven and new witnessing tools ready to help you make an eternal difference.
B	Austin Wessel	Developing Contemporary Worship Teams	Developing an authentic, genuine contemporary worship experience can be a key to attracting new attenders and seekers. How can you develop, build up, and maintain a healthy worship team (praise band) to lead this service?
C	Steve Armbrust	A New Model for Adult Education in the Mid-Sized Church	"Midsize communities" is a new Adult Sunday morning Bible study model that focuses on groups discovering what it means to be fully devoted followers of Jesus Christ. This workshop will introduce practical strategies and tools for helping people grow in relationship with God and mature in faith.
C	Jeremy Becker	Youth Ministry Toolbox	What are some ideas for building youth groups, setting schedules, activities to build community, resources for teaching bible studies and more?
C	Kurt Bickel	How to Facilitate Great Meetings	Church meetings can be effective, efficient and empowered for mission. Kurt, who co-authored the popular, "Till We Meet Again" book on church meetings, will lead a dialog about ten strategies for great meetings. All participants will receive a complimentary book!
C	Mark Brink	Ever Thought About Starting a School Ministry?	Lutheran School Ministries (Early Childhood/Elementary/Middle/High) provide incredible opportunities for Outreach into communities. Mark will share key considerations and the basic steps in determining the feasibility of starting such a ministry.
C	Scott Gress	Vision Casting For Fishers of Men	A shared vision can be used to bring focus, simplify decisions, engage more people and accomplish great things. In this workshop, we will talk about the ingredients that can keep your vision statement from languishing on the shelf.
