FLAGLER C	Megan Miessler "Healthy Clergy Families"	Rev. Dr. Rick Armstrong "Moving from the Inside Out and What Gets in the Way"	Megan Miessler & Rev. Dr. Rick Armstrong "As You Love Yourself...As change is All Around Us"
	Clergy families face their own unique challenges and can struggle to manage the expectations that they feel from the church and the community. In this session Megan Miessler, LCSW will talk about the challenges that clergy families face on a daily basis from her own experience growing up in a clergy family and working with church workers over the past 14 years. She will provide tools to assist you in coping with the expectations that are felt by your children, spouse and yourself as you serve as a faith leader in your church and community.	We live in three worlds and we are influenced by those three worlds - the world around us, the world inside of us and the world to come. Which worlds influence our world within? Scripture tells us that much come from within and from our heart. In this workshop we will explore how we are led and what we want to do about ministry and self-care and what gets in the way.	So much in life and ministry is changing and continues to change. How do we respond to that change and even learn from change? Why is self-care important now maybe even more than it has ever been. In this workshop we will explore how to respond to changes in life and ministry and discuss what is important in care of self and begin to set goals for ones own plan of self care.
Grand 6	Becca Schermbeck Food and Fellowship	Becca Schermbeck Food and Fellowship
	From feeding the 5,000 to dining with the 'ne'er-do-wells', sharing the gospel over food was an integral part of Jesus' ministry while on earth. Food is still an important part of ministry today, but in a society with an overabundance of food it is easy to overconsume. This nutrition presentation will focus on healthy diets - how can we be good stewards of our diets with and in a hectic church schedule? There will also be some practical suggestions on how to navigate a good potluck or donut spread! Grand 7	Rev. Paul vonWerder Armor Bearers: How to Run Well Together		Rev. Paul vonWerder Armor Bearers: How to Run Well Together
	This session will look at Resting, Renewing, and Restoring with a few men of God. It seeks to assist pastors (and lay men) in the development of a relational group with which to hold each other accountable in life and ministry. The message is to not "go it alone" but to pray for and seek out a few like-minded brothers who will walk with you through this journey. Grand 8	Rev. Dr. Jeffery Moore Transitional Ministry: Making the Best Use of the Golden Opportunites Between Leaders	Rev. Dr. David Kruger The Mother Board	Rev. Dr. David Kruger The Mother Board
	This breakout will explore transitional ministry, or intentional interim ministry, for churches and schools. There are so many possibilities during the "vacancy" period between pastors or principals (or camp directors or other top leaders), yet often the only thing anyone notices is "we're vacant." For many years training has been available for those who find it exciting to help congregations in the interim, and now that training is expanded to include other leaders, like principals, camp directors, etc. We'll explore this from both the organization's viewpoint and that of a leader interested in the training.	When my laptop computer froze recently, I took it to UBreakiFix and asked them to get it functioning sufficiently so that I could capture all my information and files, buy a new computer, and load the information on my new device. He smiled and said he could just take out the mother board and prepare it so that I could plug it into my new computer and have all my information. News to me! The mother board controls the computer deciding what it does, in what order, and how quickly (and many other details that I do not understand). I wonder what your mother board is as a pastor. What decides what you do, in what order, and how quickly? That is a critical question for the health of a professional church worker. Can we talk?
